Written questionnaire, Focus group – journalists

Unique reference number (ID Nr.) of a participant

1. Personal and professional information

We need this information to understand how different types of people respond differently to the survey questions. All information will be for the use of the researchers only. It will be anonymised, stored securely, and no personal information provided will be shared.

- Profession / job title: _____
- What is your position in the organisation:
  - Senior
  - Middle
  - Junior
- Do you manage other journalists?
  - Yes
  - No
- Do you make final decisions about which content is published in your media outlet?

  Always Sometimes Rarely Never
- Nationality (citizenship): _____
- Gender: f / m
- Age: _____
- Country of residence: _____
- Type/format of media outlet you work for:
  - Broadcast (TV, radio)
  - Broadsheet/quality newspaper
  - Tabloid/popular newspaper
  - Online publication
  - Several formats
  - Other _____
- Ownership of media:
  - State/public media
  - Private media
  - Other (please specify): _____
- Political leaning of your media outlet:
  - Hard right
  - Moderate right
  - Centrist

  - Moderate left
  - Hard left
  - Other (please specify): _____
- Social position of your publication:
  - Liberal
  - Broadly liberal
  - Neither liberal nor conservative
  - Broadly conservative
  - Conservative
  - Other (please specify): _____
- Scale of media distribution:
  - Mainly local/regional
  - Mainly national
  - Mainly international
  - Other: _____

2. Relevance of migration to work

- How important is migration as an issue for you?
  Very Moderately Slightly Not at all

- How important is intra-EU mobility as an issue for you?
  Very Moderately Slightly Not at all

3. Workplace social environment

Please rank each of these options from 1-10 depending on how well you think it fits with your relationship with newsroom colleagues:

- Close friends: These are people you like and trust, and would be keen to spend time with outside work. Your friendship matters more than the job. _____

- Good work friends: These are people you work with, and enjoy spending time with. You may occasionally socialise outside work, but not really. _____

- Work friends: These are people you happily spend time with at work, but you have little interest in social contact outside that. _____

- Just colleagues: These are people that you work with, and don't mind, but you wouldn't call them friends. _____

- People you have to deal with: These are people you can cope with, but you'd rather get on with work without having to deal with them much. _____

- Competitors: These are people who would be happy to prevent you from succeeding if it helped them to get where they want to be. _____
- Threats: These are people who you are concerned may be actively trying to undermine you and/or your work in order to discredit you. _____
- Enemies: These are people who you see as a direct problem, and you would be pleased to see gone. You know that they feel the same as you and that they would work to undermine you. _____

4. Workplace diversity

How diverse is your newsroom?

- Roughly what percentage of the newsroom is female? _____ %
- Does it have any disabled journalists?
  - Yes
  - No
- Does it have staff from a wide range of different social backgrounds, e.g. social class, urban/rural population, regional origins etc.?
  - Yes
  - No
- Do you think the representation of minorities is more or less than the country as a whole?
  - I don't know
  - More
  - Less
- Are you aware of an official diversity policy in your organisation, or any proactive measures to ensure and extend diversity?
  - I don't know
  - Yes
  - No

5. Choice in selection and content of messages

In your newsroom, who makes the decision which stories are to be produced and published?

- I don't know
- Beat reporters
- Managing/chief editor
- Publisher
- Someone else (if so, who?):

  _____

6. Sources

How often do you use the following sources for your reporting?

- Official press releases
  Always Very often Sometimes Seldom Never
- Spokespeople of the government or public authorities
  Always Very often Sometimes Seldom Never
- Spokespeople or contacts at domestic NGOs/think tanks
  Always Very often Sometimes Seldom Never
- Spokespeople or contacts at international NGOs/think tanks
  Always Very often Sometimes Seldom Never
- Academics
  Always Very often Sometimes Seldom Never
- Primary sources (Community representatives, migrants, businesses etc)
  Always Very often Sometimes Seldom Never
- Others (which ones?) _____

How comfortable are you taking information from these sources (without additional checking)?

- Press releases by the government or public authorities?
  Very comfortable Fairly comfortable Some concern Not comfortable
- Press releases by NGOs/think tanks?
  Very comfortable Fairly comfortable Some concern Not comfortable
- Spokespeople of the government or public authorities?
  Very comfortable Fairly comfortable Some concern Not comfortable
- Spokespeople or contacts at domestic NGOs/think tanks?
  Very comfortable Fairly comfortable Some concern Not comfortable
- International NGO's/think tanks?
  Very comfortable Fairly comfortable Some concern Not comfortable
- Academics
  Very comfortable Fairly comfortable Some concern Not comfortable
- Primary sources (Community representatives, migrants, businesses etc)
  Very comfortable Failry comfortable Some concern Not comfortable

- Others _____

7. Audience response

When reporting, which considerations do you primarily have on your mind?

- Commercial considerations

  Always Very often Sometimes Seldom Never

- Eliciting an emotional response

  Always Very often Sometimes Seldom Never

- Educating my audience

  Always Very often Sometimes Seldom Never

8. News values

Do you think that you have a responsibility to tell certain stories, even if they are not interesting or appealing to many members of your audience? Why?

- No, I don't choose what I report, the editor does.
- No, my responsibility is to work for my outlet, not to introduce my ideas about what matters into it.
- No, stories are not inherently "important" – these judgements are subjective.
- No, we report, what our audience is interested in.
- Yes, because they are politically important.
- Yes, because the audience needs to be aware of them.
- Yes, because it is my moral obligation as a journalist to report all the relevant facts, no matter the public demand.
- Yes, because the subjects of my reporting deserve their stories to be told.
- Yes, sometimes the audience has to be encouraged to understand the importance of an issue.
- Don't know.
- Other _____

How important are the following aspects for a good story (about migration)?

- It is about a problem that needs to be solved (such as crime, anti-social behaviour, rules being broken, or people placed at risk)

  Very Moderately Neutral Slightly Not important at all

- It involves conflict of some sort

  Very Moderately Neutral Slightly Not important at all
- It is counter-intuitive

  Very Moderately Neutral Slightly Not important at all
- It is about the direct everyday experience of the audience

  Very Moderately Neutral Slightly Not important at all
- It is constructive/solutions oriented

  Very Moderately Neutral Slightly Not important at all
- It is emotionally gripping

  Very Moderately Neutral Slightly Not important at all
- It reports the facts objectively and impartially

  Very Moderately Neutral Slightly Not important at all
- It represents and explains the needs/lives of migrants

  Very Moderately Neutral Slightly Not important at all
- It represents and explains the needs/lives of the native/local population

  Very Moderately Neutral Slightly Not important at all
- Other (please specify): _____

9. Attitudes towards EU mobility

How far would you agree or disagree with these statements on what the free movement of people within the EU represents?

- A general benefit:

  (Free movement gives people opportunity to travel, study or work anywhere they want around the bloc.)

  Totally agree Agree Neutral Disagree Completely disagree
- An economic benefit:

  (Free movement of labour may reduce the risk of economic imbalance across the territory of the single market.)

  Totally agree Agree Neutral Disagree Completely disagree
- A general problem:

  (Free movement of people can negatively affect living conditions for natives in receiving countries and/or cause problems in countries of origin.)

  Totally agree Agree Neutral Disagree Completely disagree
- An economic problem:

  (Economic benefits may be small/non-existent or not be evenly distributed, and the movement of people means costs for many in host societies and/or countries of origin.)

Totally agree Agree Neutral Disagree Completely disagree

- An opportunity for mobile citizens

  (The benefits of free movement are mainly for the people who move.)

  Totally agree Agree Neutral Disagree Completely disagree

- An opportunity for host societies

  (The benefits of free movement are mainly for the societies they move to.)

  Totally agree Agree Neutral Disagree Completely disagree

- A problem for mobile citizens:

  (They encounter difficulties such as: economic difficulties, unfriendly/hostile environments and/or emotional/psychological difficulties.)

  Totally agree Agree Neutral Disagree Completely disagree

- A problem for host societies:

  (They face problems such as: threats to their culture, labour market competition, falling wages, or increased crime/antisocial-behaviour.)

  Totally agree Agree Neutral Disagree Completely disagree

THANK YOU FOR YOUR TIME!