Rifo

Policy on Modern Slavery

RIFO SRL

Tax Code and VAT No.: 02426250979 Business Register No.: PO - 534385
Via Filicaia 26 C, Prato, Italy
Updated: May 2025

At Rifò, we recognize that modern slavery remains a widespread issue in the textile sector. Ethical production is at the core of our values, and we are committed to ensuring that practices such as forced labor and human trafficking have no place in our operations. We promote fair and ethical practices throughout our value chain, from raw material selection to final distribution. Rifò produces exclusively in Italy, primarily in the textile district of Prato.

Geographical distance

Geographic proximity to suppliers and partners allows us to exercise greater control over working and environmental conditions. 90% of our production takes place within a 30 km radius of our office. All our workers are paid according to national contract levels, and we regularly verify that the same applies throughout the supply chain. Through inspections, direct contacts, and systematic information gathering, we maintain a high level of awareness of actual working conditions. Rifò is committed to conducting its activities in respect of human rights, in compliance with Italian and international regulations.

Material procurement

Our commitment to circularity and transparency translates into the selection of traceable and certified raw materials. We collaborate with suppliers that adhere to standards such as GRS, OEKO-TEX, and REACH. These certifications ensure the absence of hazardous substances in materials and working conditions. We are aware of the role we play in protecting the rights of workers involved in the early stages of the supply chain. For this reason, we strive to select partners who adopt responsible practices from both environmental and social standpoints.

Garment production

We choose to collaborate exclusively with certified and transparent entities. Our first-tier suppliers are subject to periodic checks and independent audits. In 2024, with the support of Bureau Veritas, we conducted 82 audits, which revealed five non-conformities, all of which have already been resolved. The GRS certification, valid until 2025, requires internal audits and third-party audits, including on-site inspections, interviews with workers, and documented analysis. This process ensures fair wages, safe working conditions, and respect for the fundamental rights of the people employed in our products.

Code of conduct

To ensure consistency and mitigate risks, we have implemented a Supplier Code of Conduct that sets out our expectations regarding working conditions. The code explicitly prohibits forced labor, child labor, and all forms of exploitation. All our suppliers and producers are required to sign and comply with it. Since we consider our local and international partners strategic, identifying risks related to modern slavery is a priority for us. We aim to gradually expand the scope of our Code by including all suppliers, even indirect ones, and by adopting practices that ensure its effective implementation.

Transparency

Rifò is committed to being an example of integrity, especially in the fight against modern slavery. Although Italian legislation does not yet require formal reporting on this matter, we are committed to regularly communicating our efforts to both internal and external stakeholders. We comply with all labor laws and prioritize the health and safety of our workers. We promote a positive corporate culture throughout the value chain. This policy reflects our constant commitment to ensuring a supply chain free from exploitation and human trafficking.

Objectives and actions

- Actively collaborate with industry organizations to share best practices and resources against modern slavery.
- Continuously improve our procedures to align them with evolving international standards.
- Provide targeted training to our team to increase awareness and the ability to identify potential risks.
- Encourage employees, suppliers, and stakeholders to report suspicions or concerns through a secure and confidential reporting system. We aim to develop an effective, accessible, and safe mechanism that ensures reports are handled with seriousness and timeliness.

At Rifò, we believe that addressing the issue of modern slavery requires constant commitment. We will continue to monitor to ensure that all individuals involved in our work are respected, valued, and protected.