Overview

Rifo Srl is committed to maintaining a work environment free from discrimination and/ or harassment. We prohibit discrimination/harassment in the workplace, committed by or against managers, colleagues, customers, suppliers or visitors in order to maintain a healthy, fair, respectful and professional environment.

Scope of application

The company policy is expected to be respected by all Rifò employees, which includes contract employees, job applicants, paid and unpaid interns, and Rifò contractors and partners.
We protect equal employment opportunities, therefore internal decisions (related to personnel selection, recruitment, training, salaries and promotions) must be free from discriminatory behaviour. Any form of harassment or discrimination in the workplace is prohibited, whether it occurs within the workplace or during company events and transfers.

Definitions

This Policy states the company's intolerance of discrimination or harassment based on race, color, religion, sex, national origin, citizenship, age, sexual orientation, disability, marital status or any other basis prohibited by law.

Basic principles

Any behaviour, judgement or action that is the cause of inappropriate conduct, as defined above and in compliance with the Rifò Code of Ethics and national and international laws on the protection of fundamental human rights, shall be rejected and subject to an evaluation procedure.

Auditing, investigation and reporting procedure

Any aggrieved party shall report the discrimination or harassment suffered to one of the following: Head of Administration, Head of his/her team, CEO. All complaints, written or verbal, will be investigated. Investigations will be conducted promptly and will remain confidential as much as possible.

Consequences

Any employee or individual covered by this Policy who engages in any form of harassment or retaliation will be subject to corrective and/or disciplinary action (counselling, suspension, reprimand, termination).
Termination or intimidation against individuals guilty in the first instance of discriminatory or harassing acts is strictly prohibited. Retaliation, threats and intimidation are themselves considered contrary to company policy and liable to sanction.

NOTES

This Policy will be reviewed periodically. Rifò reserves the right to review and amend this Policy to ensure that it protects equal opportunities and always promotes inclusion and diversity.
This Policy is disseminated internally to employees through the ordinary channels of communication to inform them of its implementation and relevance. In addition, it has a public character, which can be consulted on the company website.
